

Classic Components Corporation REACH Compliance Statement

Classic Components Corporation is aware of the European Union's Registration, Evaluation and Authorization of Chemicals (REACH) regulation requirements which addresses the production and use of chemical substances, and their potential impacts on both human health and the environment.

Classic Components is an electronics product distributor that provides goods and services to customers located within the EU. Being a distributor, Classic Components does not manufacture, or in other ways control or utilize REACH substances of very high concern (SVHC) in product during the distribution process.

When requested, our commitment to our customers for REACH compliance is to flow down manufacturer's REACH compliance statements and/or data when available. Any information obtained will be gathered through publicly available sources such as from the manufacturer's website or datasheets. Due to Classic's lack of control over the manufacturing processes, all information flowed down to our customers will be done so without certifications or guarantees of product compliance to REACH regulation requirements.